

Breast cancer isn't just a woman's story

When a lump uncovers the unthinkable.

Two years of silence

A 59-year-old man lived with a small, painless chest lump.

No discomfort. No urgency.

Until one day, he decided to get it checked.

Not benign. Not ordinary.

Scans and biopsy revealed a Grade-3 invasive ductal carcinoma.

Rare. Aggressive.

But caught before it spread.

Courage meets precision

Guided by Medanta's experts, treatment was precise:

A modified radical mastectomy,
followed by hormone therapy.

No complications.

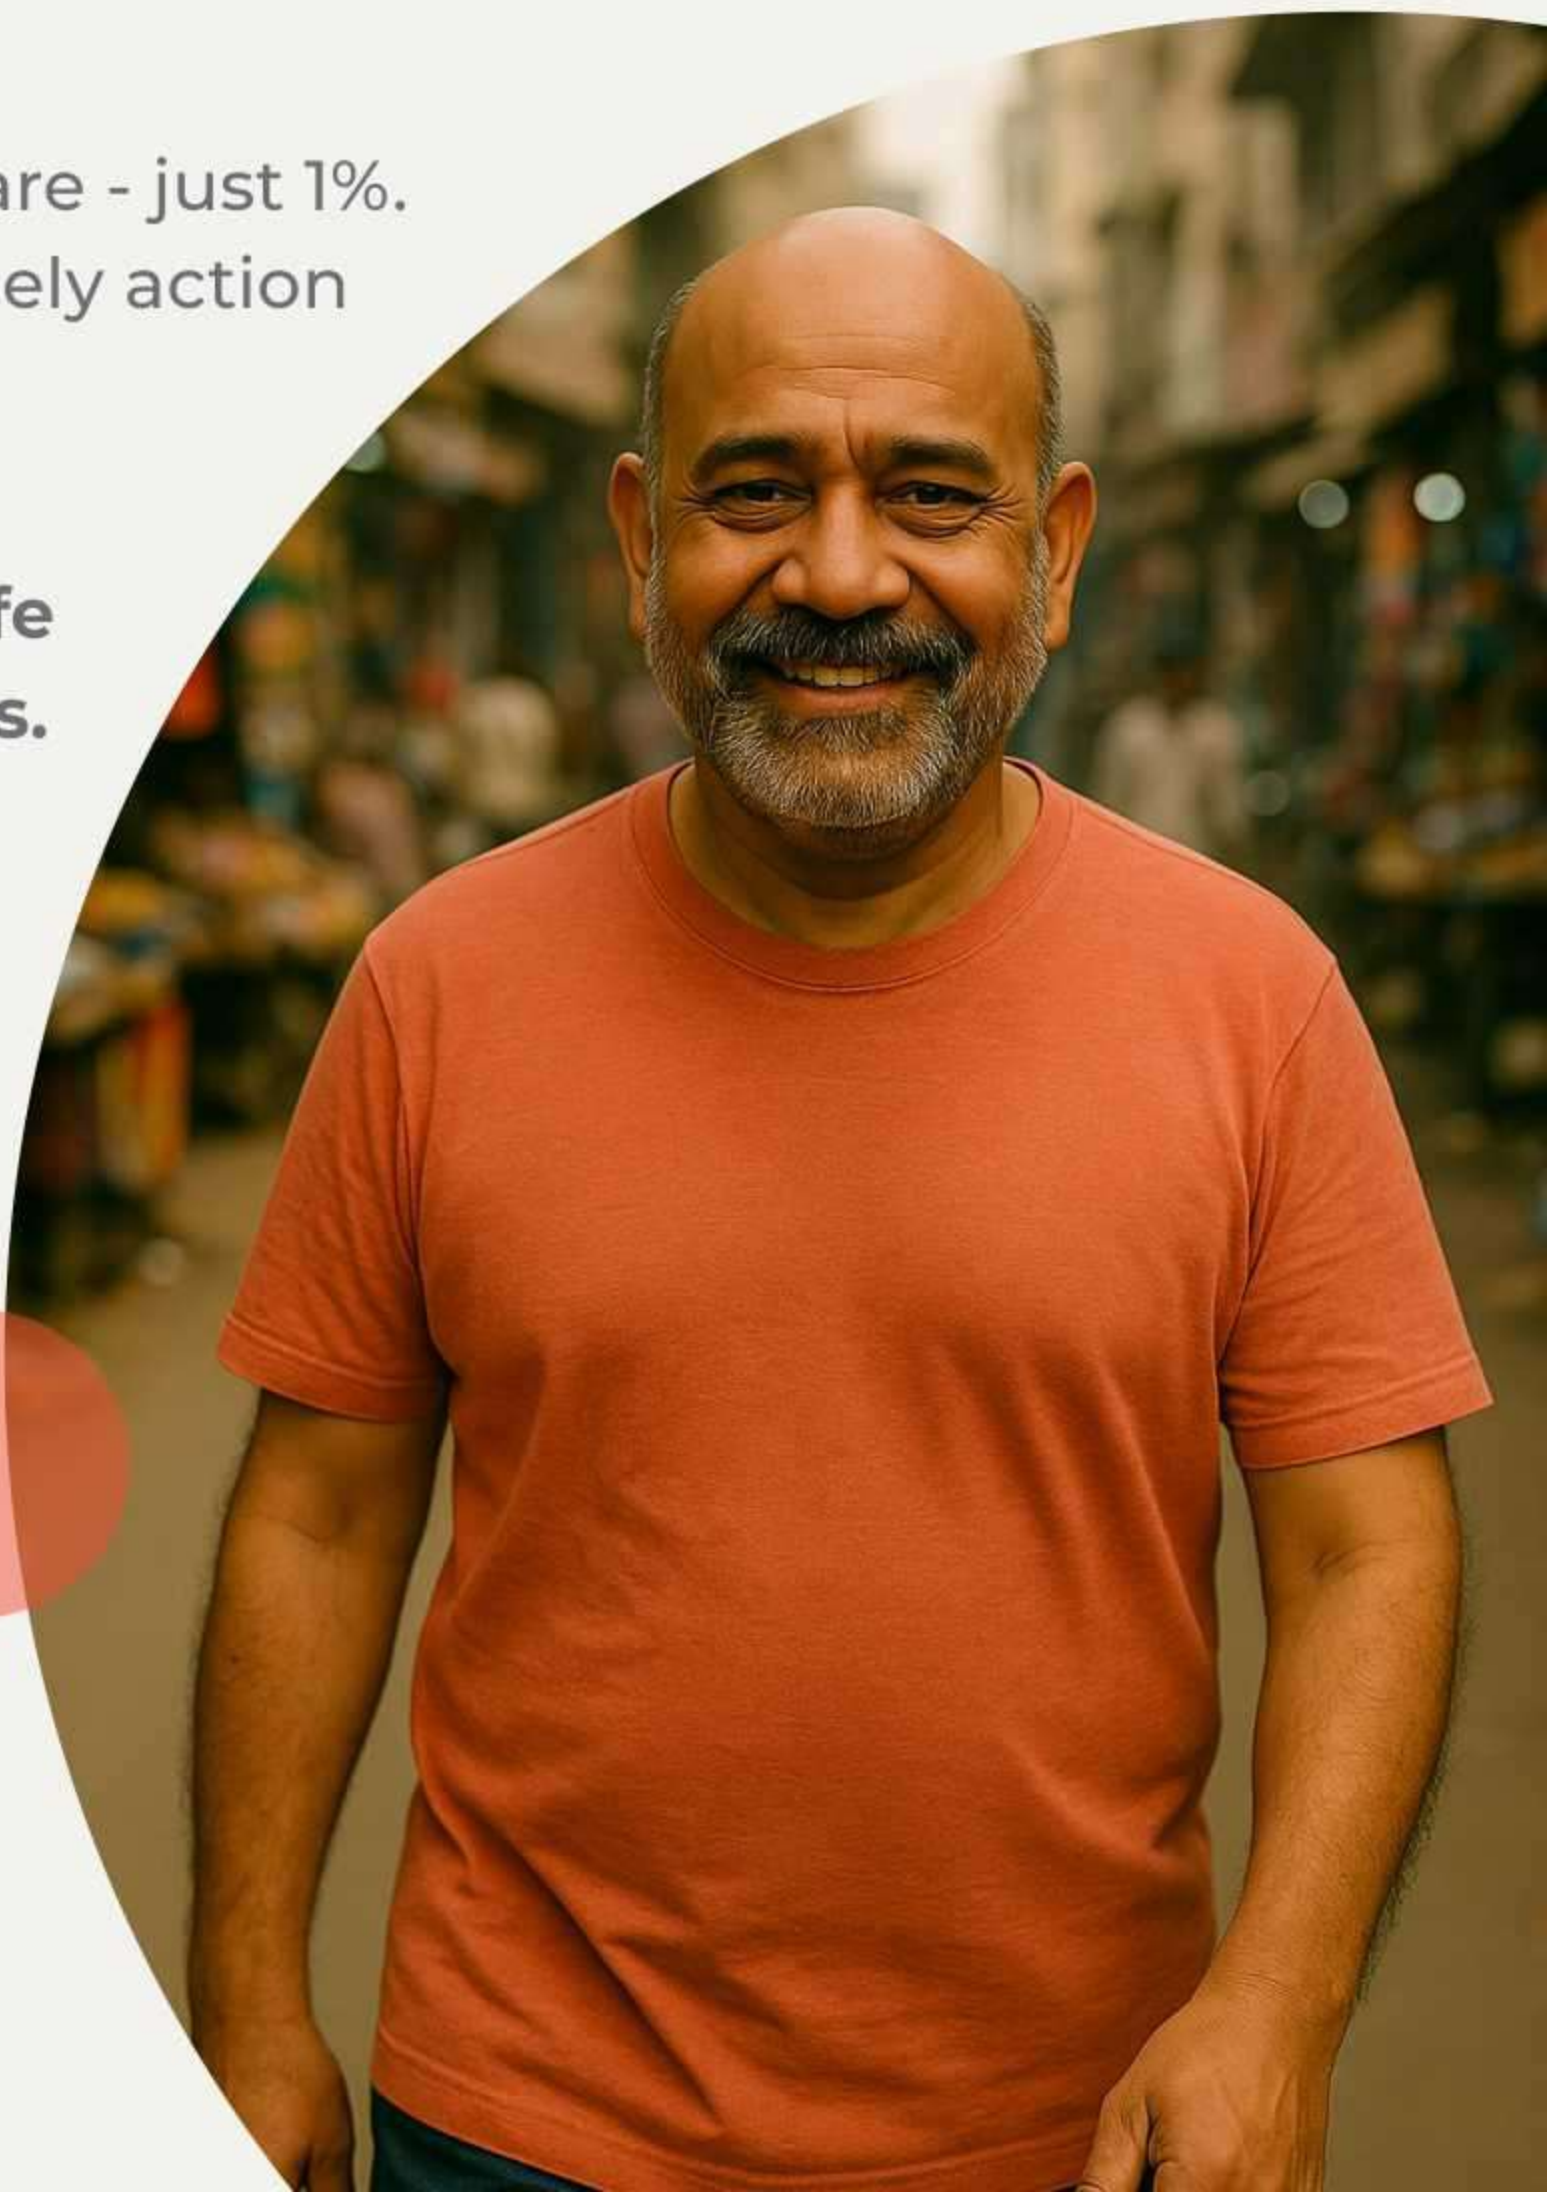

No metastasis.

Cancer doesn't follow rules

Male breast cancer is rare - just 1%.
But awareness and timely action can change lives.

Today, he is healthy,
healing, and back to life
with regular follow-ups.
